

Work-Study: Podcast support

The Institute for Religion, Politics & Culture is seeking a student to work 5-10 hours/ week to support the Complexified Podcast. Complexified is the new Podcast from the Institute and will work to move beyond the soundbites of divisive political and religious issues through digging into the messy realities of our most pressing questions.

The work will include performing background research on topics related to religion and politics and current cultural events. Work will also include performing background research on interviewees and helping to prepare materials for the show co-hosts.

Work may be done in-office at Iliff School of Theology or remotely.

This position reports to the Director of the Institute of Religion, Politics & Culture.

The position is 5-10 hours/ week

The pay rate is $16/hour

Please contact Amanda Henderson at amhenderson@iliff.edu with interest

Time frame: Starting April 1, 2022 and going through June 2022 with a potential extension